FROM THE 'PAST'

"Listen carefully, observe every technique, make samples of all visual aids and crafts available," Kathy (Malloy) Good, A.A. '70, advises Pre-School Child students.

Teaching kindergarten at Beethoven Children's Center, Los Angeles, and attending evening classes doesn't prevent Kathy from recruiting for Doheny every chance she gets.

GROUP EXPERIENCE COURSE

Y080- Group Experience Course carries one (1) unit of credit per term. This credit is applicable toward the sixty (60) units required for the A.A. degree. Whether this credit is transferable or not is totally dependent upon the institution to which the transfer is being made. There is no way in which Mount St. Mary's can make this determination.

COMMUNICATION SKILLS COURSE

The Communication Skills segment of the A.A. program provides students with integrated experiences in reading, writing, listening, and speaking. The staff attempts, when appropriate, the integration of assignments and skills within the course itself with those assignments required in the students' other classes. Basic and specific experiences include library orientation, research methods and paper, and oral presentations. In addition to general lecture sessions and small-group workshop classes, individual lab experiences with the staff are also available. The time distribution for each of these learning methods may vary the needs of the students.

For an A.A. degree, students must complete at least one term of Communication Skills (or its equivalent), but some students may be encouraged to continue for a second term, with the learning methods and experiences differing from the first. Ordinarily, three units of credit accompany the completion of each term.

Students who successfully complete a term of the Communication Skills program will receive three (3) units of credit for English 10, Freshman Composition, provided she takes the full program described above. If the students are to receive such credit, the primary responsibility for instruction must rest with a member of the English faculty. A student who continues in the Communication Skills program for more than a term may receive credit for some other designated course taught by a member of the English faculty or she may receive credit in Y081- Communication Skills. Credit in Y081- Communication Skills is applicable toward the A.A. degree.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

This column is for the purpose of providing recognition for achievements of A.A. students and staff. Only students may submit guesses on the person or persons alluded to in this column. A person may not guess himself.

No one was able to guess last weeks LIL, however, those students involved in the TRY community service center on November 4 were Debbie Bailey, Toni Boyd, Taanah James, JoAnn Neil, Linda Story and Roslyn Wilson. After dinner with Dr. Petrik and Sister Margaret Anne they went to the Bright Future Center in WATTS. The girls will be going two nights a week to the Center in order to tutor children of various ages in reading and math. If anyone else is interested in participating in this community service, please contact Sister Margaret Anne for more details.

This weeks WHO'S LIL relates to an A.A. student from Bolivia who goes to the John Tracy Clinic to translate lessons from English to Spanish for the parents of a hard of hearing child. The student improves her English in explaining the parent's reactions to the master teacher. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13. The first one to give the correct answer will win a prize.

LIBRARY HAPPENINGS

What Happened To The Library? "To utilize the beauty of the old dining room and sun porch, to create a more informal and pleasing area for research and reading, and to facilitate the finding and use of our library materials."

These are the main reasons why Sister Rose Agnes, Doheny Librarian, and her staff worked from late November into the Christmas holidays to relocate Reference books, Educational materials, tapes and records, and periodicals. Furniture was moved also, bookcases and magazine racks. Another reason for the move was to alleviate the weight of heavy references on the second floor which is not structurally suited to such weight.

The references are now downstairs, and the periodicals are in a room upstairs. "Special Education" retains its original room, but the materials needed for "General Education" are shelved in their own room also. A faculty office was made out of the former "Record Listening Room" which is now all in the room used for typewriter rental.

From the number of satisfied customers, the change appears to have been a good one.

Library Orientation--On January 6, after the usual introduction to location of materials and tools, the classes that had come to be instructed in the use of the Doheny library were given an assignment. But to quote one of them, "It wasn't just busy-work!" They were "busy", and they certainly "worked", but it proved to be rather unique and informative also.

Instead of the expected dittoed questions familiar to all as a follow-up to use of materials, the students were instructed to check out 12 cards from any of the four sets available to them, and to search for the answers in 12 specific reference books. Each card in the sets was letter-coded to prevent duplication of a source book being used.

The library was a busy place for a week as "Seek and ye shall find" became a real challenge! Becoming specific, exact, and knowledgeable in research was the end result. The next assignment a faculty member gives any of these students will find them ready with the ability to handle important basic references with familiarity.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

This column is presented by Sister Joseph Adele's Imaginative Writing class. RIDDLES--a writing experience in personifying inanimate or abstract things. Answers will be found on page 3.

1. I help you enjoy the colors you wear. Sometimes I identify you better than your name. To some men, I am a hindrance that they must finally learn to use as an advantage. I direct some to the places they may go, and some I leave free to roam. But men would dislike me more if they didn't have me at all.

Karen Scott-Turk

2. You first meet me when you're about four. I say a lot but you cannot hear me. You'll be with me the rest of your life. You cannot live without me. I am most always your supreme advisor.

Cheryl Garrett

3. I am that thing which all men claim to want, yet all base their actions on my opposite.
I am alien to man, yet all claim me as their birthright.
I produce calm and reason, and I'm called freedom's reward.

Sharon Rose

4. I am very often lost by those who don't want to face me. I am covered up by emotions, misunderstandings, and unlimited falsifications, as well as by any other shields that may form. But when I am finally faced, I can hurt you, although I believe I can more often make you happy.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Gloria Majors for guessing Irene Chan as last week's LIL. Irene's hobbies include crafts for little children, crocheting and knitting. She seeks out extra work--makes signs and plans bulletin boards--attends an evening class. When asked about sports, Irene laughs and admits that the only "C" she ever received was in physical education.

"See America First!"--advises our LIL for this week. She adds, "especially if you have never been out of California and if you can combine your career interest, your present employment plus the rewarding challenge of working with people involved in Special Education."

During the summer of 1971, LIL was sent to Park City, Utah to serve as a hostess at the Evaluation II Conference for those presenting proposals for government funding. Her second trip took her to Gatlenberg, Tennessee in the fall where the knowledge gained as an assistant librarian in the Instructional Materials Center for Special Education made it possible for her to contribute to the Early Childhood Conference.

At present, she and her co-workers plan to contribute one work-day a month in assisting exceptional children. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13. The first one to give the correct answer will win a prize.

This column is for the purpose of providing recognition for achievements of A.A. students and staff. Only students may submit guesses on the person or persons alluded to in this column. A person may not guess himself. If you know of anyone who deserves recognition, please notify Sister Francis Clare.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Loretta Goodman for guessing Barbara Farrell as last week's LIL. We also want to congratulate the other girls who called in. Barbara has a great interest in Art. She plans to attend Palmer College of Chiropractic also to continue to help exceptional children.

LIL for this week really came to the States to travel and to spend a vacation with relatives. She enjoyed New York and Washington, D.C., but the City of the Angels so charmed her that she decided to remain here.

Special work with the Red Cross in her own country (Trinidad) inspired LIL to enroll in a college that would prepare her for the nursing profession. She is anxious to earn an R.N. degree before she returns home. Her happy disposition and contagious sense of humor is a great asset in her volunteer work of teaching religion to very young children.

"Friendliness helps learning," says LIL when she sums up her reasons for liking Doheny. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

This column is for the purpose of providing recognition for achievements of A.A. students and staff. Only students may submit guesses on the person or persons alluded to in this column. Attention Academic Counselors--Courses M038- Family Relations taught by Mrs. Taylor and X025- Christian Life, taught by Sister Joan will be team taught during the Spring Term at 1:50 p.m., in Building #17. Students may receive credit for either Theology or Home Economics or both. If taken for either of the departments, it is 3 units; if taken for both, it is 2 units each.

College Receives Support Funds--The Andrew Norman Foundation has just given the College funds to support ten (10) new freshman (beginning in the 1972 Fall term) in the Pre-school and Early Elementary Teaching Program. This support will be in the form of a no-interest loan and it will cover the two years required to obtain the A.A. degree. Details, such as criteria for awarding these loans, remain to be worked out. Keep praying.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Debbie Bailey who was the first one to guess Judy Franklin as last week's LIL. I am glad to be receiving more calls on our LIL contest. Keep up the good work. Judy as most of you know is from Trinidad, West Indies. She makes all her own clothes, loves to cook, but confesses she doesn't eat her own cooking, reads anything that deals with nursing--even a First Aid book and enjoys babysitting.

The beauty of the grounds and the Child Care program are the main attractions at the Doheny Campus for this week's LIL. A California State Scholarship Winner for two years, she hopes to continue her scholastic rating until she finishes her education. She admits that her original intention was to complete only the two-year program. However, she found in her volunteer experience with very young children the challenge to work for a teacher's credential.

This term, LIL is participating in the OUTREACH program on two levels; the first takes her into a situation where she enjoys the opportunity of observing classroom structure, in the second she assists a CCD teacher who is preparing 7th and 8th graders for Confirmation.

LIL has a great desire to travel leisurely across the United States. She thinks this summer would be an interesting time to fulfill this ambition. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13 after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer will win a prize.

The distribution of prizes for winners of the WHO'S LIL Contest will be given out at a dinner in their honor at the end of the term.

A person may not guess himself. If you know of anyone who deserves recognition, please notify Sister Francis Clare.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

This column is presented by Sister Joseph Adele's Imaginative Writing class. This week we have an Idea Essay.

NIGHTMARE

Within each of us there lies deep a secret that is known only to ourselves and that is dark, distorted, cold, and ugly. We hide this ugliness, this Child of Night, from others and from ourselves. Many times in the silence of sleep, we hear the soft-yet-ear-splitting whimper of the Child's voice, sending chills throughout our bodies, like that of a nail being dragged down a blackboard.

"No!!" is the cry that comes bellowing up from within our hearts.

"No!!" is the plea that comes bleeding from within our torn-wretched souls.

As quickly as the Child appeared, quickly through tears of sweat, does he go away.

Panting in the silence of the night, we lie still. Eyes wide with secret terror and lips parched dry from the nightmare of personal hell, we listen to our hearts pound with the crescendo of wild jungle drums. Beating, Beating, Beating. . .waiting for the sun to warm our iced minds and our frozen souls. How long will the Child haunt us? How long will the Child pierce our tormented hearts? How long. . .?

Each of us has to find someone to share our secret with. Each of us has to search for the hand of love. Whether it be a friend, or whether it be a God, we must continue to search. Without this hand we cannot maintain our own self-existence because, sooner or later, the Child of Night will devour our spirits and leave us cold within the shell of our bodies.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations again to Patty Baert for guessing last week's LIL, Joanna Carroll. Joanna is grateful for two happy years at Doheny where she has been directed to share her love for art, music and nature by helping little people. She has also learned to enjoy and appreciate older people in her general office work.

In response to a call for volunteers from the California Personnel and Guidance Association, three Doheny LILS gave part of their long weekend to assist as hostesses at the Biltmore Hotel. They enjoyed the privilege given them to attend workshops of their choice during the convention. The high light of the experience was meeting so many concerned and friendly people. Can you name all three LILS? If so, call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13 after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer will win a prize.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

This column is presented by Sister Joseph Adele's Imaginative Writing Class. This week we have A Personal Experience Essay.

I suppose it was the idea of having a mother constantly concerned about me, or perhaps it was the sun reflecting so brightly from the sea as to blind me when I sought to look into my future. But still I felt that I was ready for a new life. A life where I could make my own decisions. Where I would mature enough to be born into an entirely new world--a world of my own.

I can remember that day in great detail. Walking along the warm beach, I felt each sun-heated grain of sand seep slowly between my tender toes. And when the sand became too hot, I would stop for a moment, only to sink my burning feet deep into the dampened sand.

The sun's blazing heat shone directly upon my bare, reddened back, only to be cooled off by the summer breeze, which blew softly across my warm body. It amazed me to think that that same breeze could blow the white clouds so quickly across the blue painted sky.

As I slowly moved on, my thoughts seemed to carry me away like the small pieces of litter being carried away by the wind. I was able to ignore all sounds but the crashing of the waves beside me. How anxious I was to grow up. To be as free as the ocean and to roam as carefree as the clouds that floated above me.

The tumbling waves were now beginning to break harder, and smaller drops of salty water quickly sprayed my body, distracting my deep train of thought. At that moment, I could think of nothing but how incredible that great pool of constant rippling water really was. The water would build up only to come crashing down with great power, leaving thousands of white foaming bubbles to float freely upon the blue-green sea. Each time the magnificent waves stopped for a moment, the ocean seemed to be whispering soft words of wisdom. (Though I was unable to translate them.)

It looked like the ideal thing. A brand new experience with a lifetime of excitement. If only I could follow those golden rays of sunlight which pierced so brightly into the water. Follow them far into the depths of the sea and learn to live through life like the ocean flows through each day.

I felt that I was ready to be "grown up." To be accepted as an adult and explore the world on my own. But little did I know how much I had to learn. Too quickly I had overlooked the disadvantages of my dream. How many times would I be willing to struggle through the crashing waves which lay ahead? How soon would I become frustrated because of so many sea creatures not seeing things my way? What would I do when there was no place to hide from the burning sun?

Yes, I was still a child. And I had much to learn before I was left in this world to make my own decisions. A typical child swept away by a beautiful dream. But soon I would become an adult, only to find how easily my dreams could drown in that endless sea of mystery.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

No one was able to guess our LILS for last week. There were Dora Vann from Delaware, Rahel Tamrat from Ethiopia and Judy Franklin from the West Indies. This was their first visit to a large hotel in Los Angeles and their first experience at a convention.

Our LIL for this week is so happy with her OUTREACH assignment at Orthopedic Hospital that she wants to continue there next term. At first she wondered just how she could be effective with little ones who for the most part have heard only Spanish. Now she is convinced that the common language is a warm smile. "Rock-a-bye-baby" also helps to comfort the wee tots as she holds them. LIL realizes that her experience makes her more aware of the sympathy that needs to be extended to parents of these infants. She firmly hopes that through the cooperative efforts of all involved at Orthopedic some of these children will be able to enjoy the sports that she so greatly appreciates. Can you name LIL? If so, call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

Spring Term Schedule of Classes Changes--The third term of Special Experiences will not be required to graduate with the A.A. degree. Group is, therefore, optional during the 1972 Spring Term.

Y080- Group Experience--Section 4, taught by Sister Marianne Johnson has been cancelled.

As a result of widespread expressions of interest in continuing Art courses on the Doheny campus, the Art Department is going to offer Art I: Beginning Drawing, during the Spring Term. Please add the following to your course schedules:

A001-	Beginning Drawing	3	MW	3:00- 5:00	TBA	TBA

Interested in the A.A. Nursing Program?--Sister Joyce will speak to students interested in the A.A. Nursing Program about requirements for the new program on Monday, March 13 at 12:40 p.m. in Room 108.

The Library Made A Mistake!--We forgot and we apologize! All books stamped DUE later than March 15 are stamped erroneously. Since A.A. students end their term on March 17, we will have to recall all books by the 15th of March regardless of what date we stamped on them.

Please return all books to the absent-minded librarian on or before MARCH 15. If you need them desperately up to the last moment, we will renew them for you on a day to day basis. Just bring them all back to us now.

Several students have long overdue books and/or fines. We will freeze the amount of the fine until March 15 also, but after that date if you do not make an appearance, we will have to keep adding to your account day by day.

May we remind two friends of the library that their fines are left-overs from Fall Term. We don't like to lose friends!

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Gloria Majors for guessing our LIL for last week, Charron Cuthbert. This is Gloria's second win. Charron was chosen "1971 Girl of the Year" at her high school, St. Joseph, Santa Maria. She excels in swimming and water skiing. Her ambition is to be a nurse. Charron says: "I am happy at Doheny because here you are more than just a number."

Her hobby which began when she was eight years old has taken LIL to tournaments in Sacramento, Oakland, Bakersfield, Riverside and San Diego. She has trophies from all of these contests, but thinks that she received the most pleasure from the good friends she made during the competitions. LIL, who is left-handed, amazes her rivals when she bowls with her right hand. She chuckles, "I've been teased constantly about this. I can't even throw my ball with my left hand." Can you name LIL? If so, call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13 after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

A dinner honoring the LILs and the winners will be held next term. Details will follow.

A person may not guess himself. If you know of anyone who deserves recognition, please notify Sister Francis Clare.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Linda Story for guessing Debbie Bailey as our last LIL. In addition to bowling, Debbie is also a left-handed champion in archery, basketball and baseball. She chose to attend Doheny because she wanted to study at a small private college where she would be assured of individual counseling and a good liberal arts program.

"OUTREACH makes you want to get out and do all of these wonderful things," says LIL for this week. She recalls that a childhood pastime has proved most helpful and rewarding in her OUTREACH program with very small children at Orthopedic Hospital. She fascinates the little tots by illustrating with cartoons her stories of "The Numbers" (an imaginary family she created when she was very young.) Gradually, some of her listeners try their skill at drawing and this creates enjoyment and laughter. Can you name LIL? If so, call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13 after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

The dinner honoring the LIL's and the winners will be held on April 13 at the Main Campus. Details will follow.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

And Out of the Blackness

And out of the Blackness
Came white cotton,
Picked by black hands,
With paralyzed fingers
Raised in worshipping spirits,
And praying to Heaven.

And out of the Whiteness
Came exploitation,
For the buying of property
And the rebuking of humans,
For the feeding of greed and the depriving of freedom.

And out of the Blackness
Came anger:
Black hands rose up
And seized the land
And the masters' wives,
And their children.

And out of the Whiteness
Came hate and fear
With a vicious lust
For human bondage,
And with a deafening cry
For unworthy mercy.

And out of the Blackness and the Whiteness
Came gray dirt,
Decayed wood needed to build the shacks
Black babies would call home;
To build white houses for the masters;
And to bury the dead with.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

A Prose Sketch by Dora Vann

The room is dark with just a glimpse of light shining in. He is sitting in front of the boxing ring, with eyes fixed in a steady gaze. He stares into the quiet empty space.

A box with three ropes around it has consumed his life as a leech sucks human blood. His gnarled mind flashes before him a life overshadowed with blackness. His memory rolls back the years like a wind whisps through the pages of a book. . . .

He was just a small kid when his father first put boxing gloves on his hands. He grew to hate them. His dad woke him up in the middle of the night once, gave him a lesson in human battery, and used the boy as an example. He could never prove himself a man to his father without following in his foot-steps.

Professional boxing--he hated it. In every fight, with each blow to his opponent, a small piece of him died. . . .

He drops his head and looks at his hands. He didn't know his opponent had a heart disease. "Oh God, I've killed a man," his mind screams out.

Now with his body and mind drained of thought and life, he sits dejectedly looking at a blood-spattered ring.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Ann Feeney who guessed last weeks LIL, Vicki Shallenberger. In addition to drawing, Vicki also derives great pleasure from music and is interested in foreign languages. Her ambition is to become an illustrator of children's books.

"How strange that my longing for faraway places should bring me to Doheny where I don't feel faraway at all! Everything and everyone makes me feel quite at home," reflects LIL.

Four years in a resident high school provided this ranch girl with many insights about living closely with others. She thinks this past experience has helped her to enjoy meeting students from many different lands. If all goes well, LIL would like to travel across the United States this summer to learn more about various sections of the country.

The opportunity to work with the pre-school tots has confirmed LIL in her ambition to be a teacher. She hopes that she can impart her love for music, arts and crafts to her future pupils. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13, after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

MORE NEW FACES ON CAMPUS

Have you been wondering about those young men and women who were on campus last Tuesday afternoon? They are UCLA graduate students who are studying for their M.A. degree in English and who hope to teach in a junior college. Their seminar teacher, Mrs. Wilkinson, has arranged with Dr. Petrik, Sister Mary Williams, Chairman of MSMC English Department, and Sister Joseph Adele for these students to observe and, perhaps, do some practice teaching or tutoring, mainly in the English classes here at Doheny. Mrs. Wilkinson wanted to provide her students with a variety of educational experiences in preparation for their future teaching and felt that the Doheny A.A. program, with its different approaches to learning, would contribute to this preparation.

During their first visit, Mrs. Wilkinson and the students expressed many favorable reactions to the campus, its spirit, and the program. Members of the group will be returning to campus off and on during the Spring term. We are delighted to have them and hope the arrangement will prove mutually beneficial to both the UCLA and Doheny students.

THANK YOU

We want to extend our sincere thanks to all the students, faculty and administration who contributed to the success of last weeks Open House. Our records show we had 95 parents and friends sign the register and 101 students.

Many nice things were said about the tours and their guides. Thanks again.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

A prose sketch by Michelle Florio

"Good morning sir. What can I do for you today?" Whether he heard me or not above the noise in the bank, he did not attempt to answer my question. I noticed his hand hesitate and shake as he passed a piece of paper to me. My eyes looked up and searched his face that had beads of sweat along his brow and hairline. I opened the piece of paper and knew that it was--what I have always been warned of. My mind and heart raced like fire. 'Is this really happening to me?'

"Hurry up lady!" he spoke forcefully through his teeth. My mind snapped out of the daze I was in. I could see hiding inside his coat the barrel of a gun. My voice quivered as I replied, "oh--oh--yes."

I bent down to the bottom of my cash box. I gathered all the bundles of green bills as fast as I could at one time. There was a bag waiting for the money on the counter. I began stashing the money in. 'My God, this is actually happening to me. My coin! Oh, forget it.' I dug in the drawer for the marked money. 'Yes, make sure I don't forget it. . .'

I glanced at the man; his eyes pierced straight at mine. Calmly I laid the bag on the counter. "Thanks," he said. As he turned, I pushed the silent alarm and watched in shock the front doors swing.

Numbly I turned to the teller next to me. I gathered as much of my voice as I could. "Chris, I've just been hit. . .that man just took my money."

"Oh, stop kidding!"

"I'm not. . ." She turned and looked at my face and knew.

I closed my window. All the other workers gathered around me. They all began to spin.

Next thing I knew I was lying down in the backroom. I saw the officer's badge flash before my eyes. "Okay lady, take it slow and start from the beginning. What color were his eyes, how tall. . ."

WHO'S LIL (LIVING IS LEARNING) CONTEST

No one guessed our LIL for last week, Frances Calilao. Frances, an identical twin, born on the feast of St. Francis likes to inform her friends that she was baptized by a Franciscan priest at St. Francis Hospital, conducted by Sisters of St. Francis who also were her teachers at St. Francis High School in Honolulu. No wonder that she is so devoted and loyal to her patron saint!

Her hobbies include a little surfing, playing the piano and organ, working on silk screens, working with batik and macrame. LIL is an expert in dancing the tinikling, hula and Polynesian dances. She will gladly teach you.

Doheny Happenings

Week of April 16, 1972

This week's LIL came to the United States to learn methods of helping small children. High school and two years at Doheny have provided her with many valuable ideas.

She reflects: "The United States is too big for me, and I am not needed here. My ambition is to return to my country where, eventually, I plan to open a nursery school for poor children. I want to bring the same enthusiasm and fun to little ones there that I have experienced here in the child-care program." She is diligently making a collection of lesson plans including games, arts and crafts that she is anxious to share with the less fortunate boys and girls of her own land. Next on her program, is to travel in many countries to gain more ideas that she can use in bringing enjoyment and learning to the children of her future nursery school.

Very few persons know that more than one hundred blind children shared LIL's recent birthday party. She used her gift money to prepare surprise packages for them. Can you name LIL? If so, contact Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13, after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Student Development Change--As you probably know, Dr. Pehlke has terminated his position as Dean for Student Development earlier than expected. This was necessitated primarily by his need for surgery. We are all grateful for his interest in and contributions to the A.A. program.

Unfortunately, his leaving creates a serious void. With the rapid approach of the end of the term, we must quickly begin to determine what needs to be done to complete a successful year. I have, therefore, asked Sister Mary Irene to assist the student officers in identifying the tasks ahead. Anyone who can help should feel free to speak to Sister Mary Irene or the Student Body Officers.

Last Day To Drop A Class--This Thursday, April 27, is the last day to drop a class without penalty of grade F. If you plan to drop a class, see Sister Elizabeth Anne before Thursday.

NEW COMMITTEE

Sister Mary Irene has been asked to create and chair a committee to plan general A.A. meetings for next year. She has agreed to do so and will be asking several people to participate. The purposes of the meetings will be to help facilitate campus communication, to feature some significant campus activity at each meeting and to have some fun. These meetings will not be used to transact any business in a formal sense. Please feel free to give your ideas to Sister.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Taanah James, with an assist from Regina Rodriguez, correctly guessed our LIL for last week, Pornchan (Pinkie) Sosothikul. Pinkie comes from Bangkok. She has always been interested in working with poor children. At home she taught the Thai dances each year to very small boys and girls who were preparing to take part in the traditional field day performances. Her favorite classes in college in addition to the pre-school training have been logic, psychology, and now, home nursing. "When you come to Bangkok, be sure to visit me," invites Pinkie.

Active membership in the Future Nurse's Club in high school inspired LIL to investigate nursing as a career. During the summer of 1971 she thoroughly enjoyed working in a program sponsored by Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. A designated candidate for a student research program offered at the hospital this summer, LIL is hopeful that she will be chosen. Presently, in addition to serving on many youth committees in her Church, she is a volunteer in the OUTREACH program at Orthopedic Hospital. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office (272-8791, extension 13) after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer will win a prize.

This column is for the purpose of providing recognition for achievements of A.A. students and staff. Only students may submit guesses on the person or persons alluded to in this column. Movie--On Thursday, May 4, the World Literature class will see the film "Cyrano de Bergerac" in Room 207, from 3:00-5:00 p.m. Faculty, students and staff are welcome to attend.

Cinco de Mayo Day Activities--May 4 will be Cinco de Mayo Day at Doheny. Much work has gone into making this a special occasion. Activities will start at 6:00 p.m. on campus. There will be a special guest speaker, a dance troupe from Gardena High School, authentic Mexican music and an authentic Mexican dinner. All are invited to attend. Admission is $1 for children under 12 and $2 for adults. For further information contact Martha Montano, Bertha Richardson, or Regina Rodriguez at the Student Body Office.

Award Given To OUTREACH--Mount St. Mary's College Doheny OUTREACH Program has won the Vision Award from the Women's Division of the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce. This award will be given to the College through three representatives who will be guests at the Salute to Youth in Volunteer Service Award luncheon at the Biltmore Hotel on May 9.

CONGRATULATIONS ON MARDI GRAS

Congratulations to Kathy McGuirk, the Student Senate and all of the others who made the Mardi Gras an outstanding success. All of us really appreciate what you have done. It's time to be feeling pretty good about yourselves.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Debbie Bailey correctly guessed last week's LIL, Ruth Smith. Ruth attributes the great interest she has in working with various groups in her Church to the inspiration of her parents who have always been active in many endeavors. She does secretarial work for her pastor on Saturdays, teaches a youth group on Sundays and is a member of the choir. As vice president of the educational council, she feels she has an excellent opportunity to encourage students to continue their education. Ruth takes time out for football, basketball and tennis in that order.

"A prompt reply brought me to Doheny," reports LIL. "I applied to many colleges in the United States and am still waiting for an answer from some." Conversant in three languages: Chinese, English and Spanish, she finds English the easiest. She studies Chinese history, culture and the Cantonese dialect under her father's supervision for two hours every evening; Spanish was the second language offered at her high school where the Sisters of Mercy from Rhode Island conduct college prep courses in English.

According to family custom, LIL served a period of five years helping in her father's export-import firm before beginning college. Her ambition is to finish her education in the States and eventually to go back home to teach Chinese in high school.

"In my country, a whole week could go by without anything new happening; here something new is happening every day. My father's advice not to fall in love with the United States is going to be difficult to follow." Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13, after 9:00 a.m.

FROM THE IMAGINATION CORNER. . .

A Mystery of Age by Deanie Yeakel

The old man slowly opened his wrinkled eyes, awakening to the sound of the small clock ticking next to him and the rattling of the furnace echoing softly in the next room. As he lifted his long tired legs from the timeworn bed, his deep thought was distracted by the loud squeaking of the bed with each movement.

It was Sunday morning, and as the sun shone brightly outside the old wooden house, it seemed to be calling to the colorful flower buds, reminding them to awaken and spread the sweet fragrance of freshly bloomed roses. But to the old man, it was just another day. He dragged himself to the tan-colored bathroom and glanced in the mirror, only to see the many wrinkles that time had drawn on his fair face.

As usual, the old man spent most of the morning picking up the clothes that were neatly hung over the back of his desk chair and dusting off the few glass-stained tables in the front room. "How pleasant it would be if all the lifeless furniture which sits before me would suddenly change into the old friends that I have missed so in the past few years," he thought. He took a quick last glance at the paint-chipped rocking chair sitting motionless in the corner and slipped quietly out the tall front door.

He was out for his daily walk; and as he moved slowly down the narrow steps, he could feel each muscle in his stiff body pulling tightly as he took another step. Each day he followed the same path. Down the littered sidewalk to the quaint little food stand where the scent of cooked hot dogs was so strong he could almost taste them. Sinking his long boney hand deep into his pocket, he pulled out the change and counted it to make sure he had brought enough to pay for one of the tasty hot dogs and a small glass of sweetened lemonade.

As he sat patiently on the wobbly stool, waiting for his order, the old man could not help thinking of the good times he and his friends had had as they sat at this same stand, sharing their smiles with each other. How he missed having someone to share good times with or someone there to help cheer him up when nothing seemed to be going right.

"Your order, sir. . . sir, your food is here."

"Oh, thank you." Thoughts flew quickly through his head; and before he knew it, he had finished the small piece of meat wrapped neatly in the soft bun.

As he rose from the mustared-covered counter, he stood silently for a moment, admiring the warm sun shining brightly through the blue sky, and then started on his way again. But as he turned to walk away, his eyes were captured by the smile of a small child standing across the quiet street. She was leaning softly against the white painted fence, which surrounded an orphanage, staring at the old man with eyes of innocence. As he moved closer to the child, he noticed a freshly picked flower clenched tightly in her tiny fist. Their eyes gazed kindly upon each other, saying more than words could ever say. Though she stood silently, she seemed to be singing songs of joy to the old man as he stood near the pointed fence. Then the child's voice broke the silence. . . . "This flower needs a friend."

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Teresa Cook correctly guessed our LIL for last week, Refina Quan. Refina, born of Chinese parents in British Honduras, is well informed about the ancient and modern history of her country. In conversation with older people, which she enjoys, she learned many interesting facts about the reefs in the world, the hurricanes that changed the geography of the land, the cultivation of sugar cane and its effect on the economy of the country.

LIL believes that the Church has been very progressive since Vatican II. Great emphasis has been placed on prayer groups for the young who also engage in social action among the poor in the outlying villages which can only be reached by walking or bicycling. Refina considers it a privilege to have been a member of one of these groups.

This week's LIL expresses her appreciation for the Doheny program with enthusiasm and gratitude. "Before I came here, school meant only going to classes and studying." Her OUTREACH experience as a volunteer tutor for second grade children at St. Vincent's school was the spark needed to expand her viewpoint. She also considers that being involved in planning activities on campus for Mardi Gras and Cinco de Mayo has helped her to grow up. However, these interests do not lessen her desire to attend a program at Universidad Iberoamericana in Mexico City to further her studies. Her final goal is to become a Spanish teacher. Can you name LIL? If so, call Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13, after 9:00 a.m. The first one to give the correct answer wins a prize.

This column is for the purpose of providing recognition for achievements of A.A. students and staff. Only students may submit guesses on the person or persons alluded to in this column. A person may not guess himself. If you know of anyone who deserves recognition, please notify Sister Francis Clare.

All materials for the Doheny Happenings should be submitted to Dr. Petrik's office (Main Campus). Deadline for the material is Wednesday, preceding date of issue. Dateline for the material is every Monday. Please write or call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

Congratulations to Pinkie Sosothikul who correctly guessed last week's LIL, Martha Montano. Martha was honored by the Los Angeles Times as an outstanding high school student at the end of her senior year. Her favorite subjects are Spanish and French; she prefers radio to T.V.; enjoys sewing, especially when she is making costumes for Mexican-American entertainments.

Interior designing was LIL's first love. For a short time she thought she might try business, but now she is convinced that courses in the Home Economics department are providing a valuable background for her future.

LIL is especially pleased with three features that she judges to be outstanding at Doheny: the teachers' concern for each individual, the friendliness shown to a newcomer by the students, and the support furnished by group counseling.

LIL plays an active part in the CCD program in her parish. Every month in co-operation with the share-a-trip project of the welfare agency she takes little ones on picnics, visits to the zoo and other intriguing places of interest. Can you name LIL? If so, contact Dr. Petrik's office, 272-8791, extension 13, after 9:00 a.m.

This will be the last WHO'S LIL CONTEST for the year. Awards will be presented to the winners on Laurel Day, Sunday, June 4. Again we want to congratulate all the winners for the year as well as the LIL's.

All materials for the DOHENY HAPPENINGS should be submitted to Dr. Petrik's office (Main Campus). Deadline for the material is Wednesday, preceding date of issue. Dateline for the material is every Monday. Please write or call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13.

WHO'S LIL (Living is Learning) CONTEST

No one guessed our LIL for last week, Jessie Zuniga. Jessie speaks with gratitude for her teachers at Pomona Catholic High School who gave her good training and who recommended that she enroll at the Doheny Campus. She likes being the middle member of a large family for she observes that the ones on either end are spoiled. Although this is her first term on campus, she feels right at home and was one of the most active planners of the Cinco de Mayo Fiesta. Ask Jessie to tell you about her friend David.

This was our last WHO'S LIL CONTEST for this year. Again thanks to all who participated. Awards for the Spring winners will be given out on Laurel Day.

All materials for the DOHENY HAPPENINGS should be submitted to Dr. Petrik's office (Main Campus). Deadline for the material is Wednesday, preceding date of issue. Dateline for the material is every Monday. Please write or call Linda at 272-8791, extension 13.
